Graduate Student Fellow

The National Center for Policy Analysis (NCPA), a Dallas-based public policy research institute seeks applicants for a Graduate Student Fellow position.

NCPA is looking for motivated individuals to provide staff support on a number of important projects. The Graduate Student Fellow will write, edit, and conduct research on projects with NCPA's policy staff. Qualified candidates must demonstrate strong writing skills, quantitative abilities and an understanding of and interest in free-market economic policies. The best candidates will look for new challenges and responsibilities rather than wait for them to be assigned. The Graduate Student Fellow position is ideally suited for graduate students or recent graduates. The position is located in NCPA's Dallas headquarters. The position is for 40 hours per week. If you have questions or need additional information, please contact Brian Rubaie, Policy Analyst, at 972-308-6487 or email (preferred) brian.rubaie@ncpa.org.

To apply please send the following documents to Brian Rubaie:

1. Resume or CV
2. Short statement or cover letter explaining why you want to work with NCPA and specifying your primary area(s) of interest.
3. An original essay of no more than three pages that analyses a current public policy problem and outlines a solution.
4. Two letters of recommendation from college professors or employers (may be sent separately).

The NCPA is a non-profit, nonpartisan organization, established in 1983. Our mission is to seek private-sector, free-market solutions to public policy problems, which means we look to the competitive entrepreneurial sector rather than government regulation and control. We examine various ways in which government has an impact on your life (e.g. retirement, health care, education, taxes, the economy, the environment) and identify ways to increase efficiency and productivity. For more information about the NCPA visit www.ncpa.org.
